BRANCH RAILWAY,-The work on the Branch Railway, passing from Ashtabula to Jamestown, is progressing. The grading is now under contract, and hands are busily at work on every mile of the entire line. A very large amount of the cutting and filling has been done on most of the way, while some of the road bed is ready for the ties and iron.

THE A. M. E. CHURCH.—EXHIBITION.—The colored children and youth of the A. M. E. Church, here an exhibition in the chapel of that church, on Ohio street, last Tuesday vening. A large audience was present, and delighted with the exercises which, consisting of declamations and singing, was highly creditable to the juvenile performers. The singing of Miss Alice Sherman, who has been appropriately styled the "Colored Mocking Bird," is described as being exquisite. Her voice is admirable, having a rich, pure and meledious tone. She sang with remarkable good taste and fine effect for one so young, and gave evidence that she will one day excel the "Black Swan" in richness and sweetness of voice.

Miss Sherman, with others, propose giving a concert soon, for the purpose of helping obtain funds for the enlargement of the building of the A. M. E. Church. 161 Ohio street. The house now used is altogether too small to accommodate the rapidly growing congregation and the ourishing and constantly increasing Sabbath School. It is thought that $800 will procure a sufficient enlargement of the ouilding, and this amount the church authorities are now endeavoring to raise. We trust that our citizens, if called upon, will feel disposed to contribute, each one, his mite towards carrying out the plans of this needy and useful church.

JUDGE ARREY AND THE POLICE. - Judge Abbey met the police force of the city at the City Marshal's Office last evening, and made some remarks and auggestions concerning the duties, &c., of the Marshal and the Police generally; that these of the former are various, laborious and responsible, and that the latter are the preservers of order and the general guardians to whom the city looks. Personal or political pre judices should not lend the slightest bins in the arrest of parties; all the laws and ordinances of the city should be mildly, ecommended that any dereliction of duty on the part of any member of the police should be punished by prompt dismissal from the service.

The Judge remarked that the crimes o theft, burglary and arson have latterly become very common, and that our citizen very properly look to the police for protection against these losses and outrages; and he hoped that, under the new organistion, the police may lose none of its ormer efficiency.

He concluded by declaring that, for his own part, he should endeavor to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor, who, by his services for a number of years as a judicial officer, has acquired an enviable reputation as a competent and worthy magistrate and a faithful, impartial judge.

THE HUTCHISSONS.—OUT readers will not forget that the Hutchinsons are to appear at Brainard's Hell to-night. This pioneer family have been singing for nearly a generation, and, like wine, they have mellowed with age. Those wonderful tones, at once distinct and dreamy, which enchanted the public at an early day, ravish still.

It is a great relief for lovers of old-fash ioned natural singing with all the highfalutin, flourishes and quirlecules left out, to escape the opera and fashionable concert once in a while, and bathe in such a sea of harmony as the Hutchinsons always spread before one for his entertainment.

Such privilege we shall have again to night, and we expect large numbers of our citizens to be present to listen to music which goes right to the heart of every person whose taste has not been vitlated and his nature "depraved" by too much "art"

M'LLE URSO'S CONCERT .- A second concert was given by M'lle Urso and her talented artistes last night, and, we are sorry to add, before a house shamefully small, although approcestive. At this extremely late hour of writing, we cannot speak of the merits of the performance as we would like to do. throughout, and the most wonderful exhibition of musical genius and skill which has ever been given in this city.

We spoke at length in our last issue of her first entertainment. It is not necessary to speak further of the marvelous, almost divine power of this artists.

We have never attended a festival of any society where the general arrangements were so admirable as those which honored the taste of the Committee of the St. George's Society. Five tables extended from end to end of the hall, leaded down with a miscellany of edibles so tastefully arranged and luxurious, that the most dainty and fastidious epicare must have been delighted, with the inviting and beautiful sight.

About half-past nine o'clock the gay and brilliant partibs in the galleries began filing down the stairsways, and sat down to the sumptuous tables. Full two hundred and fifty found places. Justice having been done the viands, the tables were partially cleared, the mass of the company retiring to the galleries. PRESIDENT'S REMARKS.

The President, Mr. Parsons, soon called the party to order, and made a few preliminary remarks, saying that the regular time of celebrating the engiversary was on the 23d of April; but that it had been postponed on account of the awful calamity which had befallen the nation in the murder of the President. He declared that the St. George's Society is a benevolent organization, and gave a summary of the good work accomplished by it during the past year :

relief of English poor, is $120; number of persons relieved, sixty-nine; number who navo received medical advice and medicine, eight. Nine railroad passes have been obtained for destitute Englishmen. Three persons have received Christian burial.— Employment has been obtained for fifteen The President remarked that, although this exhibit was on the whole creditable to the Society, they could do more if Englishmen would join the Society and co operate wit them. And he cordially invited all Englishmen in the city and neighborhood to units with them at once. After congratulating the company on the fact that the speeches were to be very short, he announced the first regular toast : TOASTS AND RESPONSES. 1. St. George, our Patron Saint-The day and all who honor it. Rev. J.H. Rylance responded in a very appropriate, though extemporaneous, speech. He said that St. George, our Patron Saint, is understood by all present, they being familiar with all the history, traditions and fables concerning him. The day we celebrate is not St. George's. He had honed yet firmly and uniformly enforced, and he that when the change of day had been decided upon, it would fall upon the Queen's birthday. (Cheers.) The change was highly proper. The Society was bound by every naideration to show publicly that it shared deeply the common sentiment of grief, of the American people.

He prenounced a high, elequent and truthful culogy on the character of Abraham Lincoln, naming him a saint, if saint means purity, separateness from common men. He was an eminent political saint, and had done much by his high and truthful bearing, to wipe away the stain of political life and action and bring back the days of Washington. He lived to demonstrate that the masses of the American people can appreciate, love and honor simple uprightness of character. He declared that nowhere will the con mon people grieve more deeply over the fall of our beloved leader than the masses in England. This awful crime will be newhere held in deeper abhorrence and detestation than there. Whatever of bad blood and ill-will may have been engendered between the two countries in years past, will be wiped away by this calamity which will knit together the masses of the two nations more closely than ever before. The speaker then alluded to the objects of the Society, and insisted that every Englishman is in duty bound to belong to the organization. He took his sest smid loud and prolonged cheering.

Misses Adams and Mesers, Chubb and Dockstader, sang with admirable taste and effect the song of the "Red, White and Blue." 2. The Queen, God bless her, | was the next tosat It elicited three hearty cheers,

He will not probably recover. We could not learn where he was taken.
